This course is designed to provide first responders with the knowledge to recognize and survive a clandestine lab encounter. The course objectives are as follows: define clandestine labs; identify the drugs that are manufactured in clan labs; understand the history of methamphetamine; identify the effects of meth; describe the hazards, prevalent methods and trends in methamphetamine production; identify first responder actions; and assure compliance with state and federal regulations.

This course is ideal for first responders (Police, Fire, EMS, Probation and Parole, Corrections, Division of Family Services, Social Services, Department of Environmental Protection, Victim Advocates, etc.)

Officers in attendance will be eligible for up to 6 hours of LETB in-service training credit.
There is no course registration fee, but lodging, per diem (meal), travel and other expenses are the responsibility of the individual attendee or their agency.

Due to the high demand for these types of courses, please register early to reserve you space in the class.
